Works Cited

The works cited page is a complete list of all sources that were used to write your literature review. You must have a minimum of four sources, which should be from a variety of different areas: periodicals, books, internet, interviews, etc. At least one primary source (source written by a researcher about their research) must be used.

Be sure to write down all pertinent information from each source you use including, but not limited to: author, editors, title, page numbers, paragraph numbers, date written, date printed, and city. You can find most of this information if you look hard enough, even when it’s an internet site.

Use NoodleTools’ MLA Bibliography Starter or EasyBib to create and format your works cited page.
